For support after sexual violence

DRCC Helpline Interpreting Service: Increasing access to support for survivors

Dublin Rape Crisis Centre (DRCC) aims to prevent the harm & heal the trauma of sexual violence in all its forms.

We provide a variety of supports to people who have experienced sexual violence, from crisis support to counselling & therapy to accompaniment to hospital, court and at the police station.

DRCC runs the National 24-Hour Helpline 1800 778888 which provides free and confidential support from a specialised crisis counsellor.

Helpline support is now available in more than 200 languages via our new, easy-to-use Helpline Interpreting Service. The service operates Mon-Fri, 8am to 6:30pm.

If you have experienced sexual violence of any kind and English is not your first language, we can support you.
